Carus – Excellence in Choral Music

Our music editions offer choirs worldwide a carefully edited, authoritative foundation for rehearsals and successful concerts. The "Stuttgart Editions," produced with the greatest care, are internationally recognized as top quality Urtext editions in the realm of choral music. Since Carus was founded it has always been a particular interest to make the music publishing program alive and accessible, and to release first-class recordings of works on our own label. The foundation of this lies in close co-operation with the best choirs, ensembles and conductors internationally.

Over 600 Carus vocal scores of choral works from the 17th to the 21st century are available with full scores and complete performance material. They reflect the breadth of our program. You can get an overview of this repertoire from our brochure from p. 17 onwards. Our aim is to publish the complete sacred vocal works of leading composers in Urtext editions.

We've already achieved this with Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy, Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart and Josef Gabriel Rheinberger, and with the works of Johann Sebastian Bach, Heinrich Schütz and Joseph and Johann Michael Haydn we're well on the way.

An innovative product expands our range for choirs: carusmusic, the choir app. This app offers choral singers a new way to learn their voice reliable, even if they struggle reading notes. Choral singers are supported preparing their choral part for the next rehearsal. carusmusic combines the best from publisher and record label.

carusmusic, the choir app, is being launched with the most frequently-performed choral works. Find out in the following pages which 30 works are available for you and your choir in the app.

Yours sincerely,
Carus-Verlag

Claudio Monteverdi (1567–1643)

Vespers 1610 sv 206 Vespro della Beata Vergine

As with scarcely any other work of the 17th century,

Monteverdi's Vespers 1610 has found its way into today's repertoire. The Carus Urtext edition is based on all surviving copies of the print from 1610 and early handwritten additions in these copies were taken into consideration for the new Carus edition. The performance material is characterized by its great flexibility and practicability since it can be used in different combinations for performance, as is detailed in the score.

Opus 7. Funeral music in three parts for six,

with basso continuo

Heinrich Schütz composed the Musikalische Exequien for the funeral of his patron Prince Heinrich Posthumus Reuß 1635/1636. The piece consists of three parts, which were to be performed during three different sections of the funeral service. With this composition, written as a commission, Schütz created one of the most artistic and heartfelt works of mourning ever written in the history of music. Carus publishes a critical edition and a recording of the complete works by Heinrich Schütz.

Carus · Urtext

Carus Urtext stands for historical-critical editions designed for practical performance. They are edited by well-known scholars and are based on the most current musicalological standards. All editions include complete performance material. Carus aims to publish the complete sacred vocal music (and in some cases the secular music) of all the major composers in its music program. For many editions study scores are also available.

The Gloria in D major RV 589 is Vivaldi's most famous sacred work and it is among his most important church music compositions. An independent work in one movement, it was probably composed between 1713 and 1717 for the Ospedale della Pietà, one of the orphanages of Venice in which young girls received a thorough musical training. The musically representative work is divided into 12 sections which differ in scoring, movement type, key and expressed emotions.

Messiah is regarded as the epitome of the sacred oratorio and it is also one of the most performed works worldwide. Yet, during his lifetime it was never given a definitive form, since Handel undertook various alterations in the work, as a consequence of the ever-changing performance conditions and soloists for performances he conducted during his lifetime. The present vocal score contains all of the alternative versions of the solo movements. In the vocal score Ton Koopman has – as a suggestion for the singers – indicated simple ornaments in passages where these were usually improvised.

Johann Sebastian Bach (1685–1750)

Mass in B minor BWV 232

Although Bach's Mass in B minor is one of the most frequently performed works by the St. Thomas Kantor, it presents many puzzles and problems. This applies not only to the still unanswered question as to why Bach composed this work, but also to the many details found in the musical text. A "hybrid" edition consists of the score printed in the traditional manner, together with the technology of data stored on a DVD, which presents all of the relevant sources, providing new, revealing insights into the work. The Kyrie and Gloria are based primarily on the autograph parts from 1733 which Bach sent to his new sovereign, Prince-Elector Frederick August II of Saxony, in the hope of receiving a title from the Saxon Court.

Motets BWV 225–230

The popularity of Johann Sebastian Bach's motets is equalled by the problematic manner in which they have been handed down to us. The autograph scores and parts used by Bach have been preserved for only two motets. For the remaining motets we must be content with copies whose reliability is, at best, inconsistent. The edition considers all available sources and evaluates them critically with the goal to coming closer to Bach's intentions.

St. Matthew Passion BWV 244

Bach scholars are well aware that Bach's original score and performance parts, running to almost 500 pages of music, are full of ambiguities and contradictions, particularly regarding articulation, which constantly challenge performers to new interpretations. Hofmann discusses these and other problems in a concise critical report, frequently arriving at new conclusions in the process. Extensive notes about parallel passages offer valuable help for interpretation. In short, this is an Urtext edition for practical performance based on the latest findings in Bach research.

St. John Passion BWV 245

Bach's St. John Passion is among the greatest settings of the story of the Passion in the history of music. During his lifetime it underwent several fundamental transformations. Carus offer all four of Bach's versions which have survived.

Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach (1714–1788)

Magnificat BR-CPEB E 4

Carl Philipp Emanuel Bach's nine-movement Magnificat (1749), his first great vocal composition, is among his most magnificent sounding works, in which the solo vocal parts are also among the most ambitious settings of the "Hymn to the Virgin Mary" (Luke 1). The popular work fulfills all of the criteria required for a larger sacred composition: grandeur, dignity, polyphonic and concertante choral movements, sensitive ("empfindsam") and expressive arias, and a long concluding double fugue.

Joseph Haydn (1732–1809)

The Creation Hob. XXI:2

Haydn's work marked what could be called the birth of the great German oratorio in the most emphatic sense. The primary source on which the new Carus Urtext edition is based is the first edition of the score from 1800. Contrary to normal custom, Haydn published the score himself in order to avoid unauthorized publications and to present an optimally designed edition from an "authentic hand." With this original document, which has been compared with additional relevant sources, Carus now offers a musical text based on the latest musicological findings.

Missa in Angustiis "Nelson Mass" Hob. XXII:11

The Missa in D minor was written during the summer of 1798, between the two late oratorios. Its nickname, Mass in time of War, reflects the political situation in Europe, where wars were raging following the French Revolution. The present work is, however, generally known as the "Nelson Mass." According to legend, while working on the mass, having heard of Nelson's decisive victory over the French, Haydn wrote the powerful trumpet calls which appear in the Benedictus.

The history of the genesis of the Requiem is entwined with legends and anecdotes. Mozart's pupil Franz Xaver Süßmayr completed the Requiem. Today the Süßmayr version is still the most well known, and it is doubtless the one with the closest historical ties to Mozart. In 1991 Robert D. Levin made a new completion which attempts to observe the character, texture, voice leading, continuity and structure of Mozart's music. Richard Maunder also created a new version starting from Mozart's incomplete autograph, reworking throughout the orchestration using parts of Die Zauberflöte and La Clemenza di Tito as his chief models.

Stuttgart Mozart Editions

The latest Urtext editions of Mozart's complete sacred music

The complete church music of Mozart is available from Carus in critical editions. Edited by renowned musicologists, not only are the established works included, but, in addition to the masses, the complete smaller works and less well-known works are also available. In connection with Mozart sources which resurfaced in Kraków in the 1980s, a large number of our editions were revised or newly edited; in the process, autograph scores which had been lost following the Second World War could now be taken into consideration for the first time. In the "Stuttgart Mozart Edition" his church music is available with the complete performance material.

Ludwig van Beethoven (1770–1827)

Missa solemnis op. 123

The Missa solemnis was originally intended as a work for a festive liturgy. However, during the course of its long gestation, a monumental work emerged which fundamentally breaks all liturgical bounds. Thus, it was not surprising that the first performance took place in a concert hall and even today the work as a whole is almost performed only in concerts. In a letter to his friend the piano maker J. A. Streicher, Beethoven wrote that for him the most important thing "in working on this grand mass was to awaken religious feelings and to make them lasting, both for the singers as well as the listeners."

9th Symphony op. 125

Finale "Ode to Joy"

The vocal score of the finale of the 9th Symphony is based on the vocal score made by Carl Reinecke around the end of the 19th century. The version by Reinecke, popular worldwide, closely reflects the sound of the orchestral writing, yet at the same time it remains playable. The editor Stefan Schuck has revised this historic vocal score, in the process taking into account recent musicological research. The new Carus vocal score contains rehearsal letters from all current versions of the orchestral material, and is thus compatible with all available music editions.

Next to the Stabat Mater (Carus 70.089) the Petite Messe solennelle of 1863 is Rossini's second large sacred composition. Ostensibly, the work was an occasional piece, written for the dedication of a private chapel for the once well-to-do Parisian nobility. This explains the reduced instrumental accompaniment for two pianos and harmonium. Of course this instrumental garb, reminiscent of discreet, elevated salon music, produces an unmistakable timbre which through its typical Rossini rhythm obtains an additional flair.

The Mass in E flat major D 950 is among Schubert's last completed works. Like many of his works on a large scale, it was largely forgotten after his death and was only rediscovered 1865 through the initiative of Johannes Brahms. For all of the new Carus editions of the "great" Schubert Masses the editors have once again thoroughly and subtly reexamined the source material. This has resulted in historical-critical Urtext editions which differ from previous editions in many passages: these represent major differences, including many obvious details and especially dynamic and articulation are corrected. The scholarly editions present the musical text in a manner which furthers historically-informed performance practice.

Schubert: Masses and smaller church works

Schubert composed church music throughout his life. All of his Latin masses and the smaller church works are available at Carus with complete performance material for sale.

Felix Mendelssohn Bartholdy (1809–1847)

St. Paul. Oratorio MWV A 14

Mendelssohn composed St. Paul, his first oratorio, under the impression of Bach's

St. Matthew Passion, which he revived in an epoch-making performance in 1829. In St. Paul he integrated chorale movements which led to the criticism that this was an element not suitable for church music. St. Paul was his most popular work during his lifetime, receiving numerous performances throughout Europe. Robert Schumann praised its "indelible color of instrumentation" and its "masterful ease with all of the forms in the art of composition," and he described it as "a jewel of the present." The Carus edition is the first critical edition of this famous oratorio. It has made direct use of Mendelssohn's revised first edition of the autograph score.

Elijah. Oratorio MWV A 25

Elijah is regarded as a milestone in Mendelssohn's compositional output and as a high point in the oratorio literature of the 19th century. Elijah, Mendelssohn's second great oratorio, was composed just a year before his premature death. This excitingly dramatic work also expresses a fervent belief in God, a belief which in the 19th century was no longer self-evident. The Carus edition, edited by R. Larry Todd, of Duke University in North Carolina, USA, presents detailed information about the genesis of the work and its source situation.

Both works are available in carusmusic in German language.

Complete sacred vocal music by Mendelssohn Bartholdy

Mendelssohn's sacred vocal music is a cornerstone of his creative output. It reflects and represents the musical development and diversity of this composer. His complete sacred vocal music is available in historical-critical editions at Carus, and it was recorded under the direction of Frieder Bernius.

Der 42. Psalm "Wie der Hirsch schreit"

Like as the hart longs MWV A 15

The Psalms inspired Mendelssohn throughout his creative life and, aside from a cappella settings, he left behind five great orchestral Psalm settings. Schumann wrote in 1837 that Psalm 42 was the „highest point that he [Mendelssohn] attained as a composer for the church. Indeed the highest point recent church music has attained at all.“ This work offers great formal and musical riches.

Lobgesang. Symphony Cantata MWV A 18

Originally conceived as a small oratorio or a large psalm-cantata, the combination of three symphonic movements with twelve vocal movements conformed to neither of these genres; thus Mendelssohn called the work a “Sinfonie-Kantate.” In the course of the 20th century the unavoidable and, in part, negative comparisons to Beethoven’s Ninth Symphony led to the Lobgesang being almost completely ignored. It is only in the last few decades, spurred on by the definitive impulse of Frieder Bernius and the Kammerchor Stuttgart, that the work has come to be regarded as a successful example of the symphonic conception of Mendelssohn’s sacred music, in which he attempted to bridge the gap between church and concert hall.

Hör mein Bitten

Hear my Prayer MWV B 49

Formerly one of Mendelssohn’s most popular sacred compositions, especially during the Victorian period, the anthem Hear my Prayer has been overlooked in more recent times in favor of his larger works. He conceived his anthem in four section which are linked together. The numerous alternations between the solo voice and chorus in the score bring to mind the traditional English verse anthem, though the exchanges here seem more tied to the text rather than to a preconceived formal scheme.

Camille Saint-Saëns (1835–1921)

Oratorio de Noël op. 12

In 1860 Camille Saint-Saëns composed his Oratorio de Noël for five vocal soloists, mixed choir, strings, organ and harp.

The work, sung in Latin, is based on texts from the Old and New Testaments, the Psalms and Gospels, as well as the Catholic Christmas liturgy. A distinctive chamber music-like instrumentation, with lyrical soloistic parts and a modest choral part combine to create a basic pastoral mood which has led this Christmas Oratorio to become one of the most performed works by Saint Saëns. Carus offers this work both in its original version and in an arrangement in which the choir is accompanied solely by an organ.

Gabriel Fauré (1845–1924)

Requiem op. 48

Gabriel Fauré's Requiem is undoubtedly the most important opus among the sacred works of this French master. Beginning with the first performances during the composer's lifetime, it is one of those works whose popularity has never waned. The Requiem is available from Carus in two versions: in the symphonic version of 1901 and in a version for small orchestra of 1889. The "symphonic version" of Gabriel Fauré's Requiem, published in 1901, was the product of a 13-year compositional process. Starting from the original five-movement form for strings, harp and organ, the composer wrote two additional movements, one after the other, and expanded the instrumentation in various stages for later performances. The present reconstruction of a "version with small orchestra" differs from other such attempts in that for the first time it presents the work not in a mixed version, but rather in the unified form from 1889.

Carus 27.055/50

Since its first complete performance in 1868 at the Cathedral of Bremen, Brahms's Ein deutsches Requiem is, without question, one of the key works in the history of the oratorio. In contrast to many other 19th century oratorios, Brahms places the choir, the voice of the community, at the center of the interdenominational celebration of a Mass for the Dead. Brahms compiled important passages from both the Old and New Testaments in Luther's translation, leading to a work in which thoughts on sorrow and consolation obviously referred to each other and were interrelated. An arrangement for chamber ensemble by Joachim Winckelmann makes it possible for choirs with modest budgets to perform this unsurpassed masterpiece.

This Christmas cantata is the last oratorio composed by Rheinberger and it is based on a text by his wife Fanny. The idyllic and lyrical work finely underscores the Christmas story in nine scenes.

The complete works of Josef Gabriel Rheinberger

The Liechtenstein composer is no longer regarded as one of the unknown composers of the 19th century. This is due, in large part to the 48-volume Complete Edition of the works of Josef Gabriel Rheinberger which has been published by Carus in cooperation with the Rheinberger-Archiv in Vaduz. In order to facilitate performances, Carus also offers the works of the Complete Edition as separate editions with complete performance material.

Giuseppe Verdi (1813–1901) Messa da Requiem

Among Verdi's many compositions, as a work of sacred music, the Requiem remains unique.

It was composed as a musical memorial for the Italian national poet Alessandro Manzoni, deeply admired by Verdi, and was first performed on the first anniversary of the poet's death on 22 May 1874 in Milan Cathedral. The exploration of many extremes places Verdi's tonal language wholly in the service of a dramatized liturgy. The edition is based on the autograph as the primary source. In particular, articulation, phrasing and dynamics are often indicated more precisely than in previous, well-known editions. By means of parallel passages, editorial additions attempt to make Verdi's intentions clearer through the judicious use of diacritical markings.

Giacomo Puccini (1858–1924) Messa a 4 voci con orchestra "Messa di Gloria" SC 6

The Messa a 4 voci con orchestra, composed 1880, is the composer's first large-scale piece of music and his largest non-operatic work altogether. Based on a comparison with the autograph score, numerous errors were corrected which had been present in previous editions of this mass. In preparing this edition, Puccini's additions to the instrumentation in the Benedictus and his new version of the tenor aria "Gratias agimus" from the Gloria have both been taken into consideration. The newer version of the tenor aria changes the character of the piece to such a great degree, that it has been included separately as an appendix in this edition.
